Fitch Downgrades Colombian Corporates After Sovereign Downgrade; Assigns Outlooks

Mon 22 Dec, 2025 - 3:22 p. m. ET

Fitch Ratings - Chicago/Bogota - 22 Dec 2025: Fitch Ratings has downgraded six Colombian corporate issuers' Foreign Currency and Local Currency Issuer Default Ratings (IDRs). The actions follow the recent downgrade of Colombia's sovereign rating.

A full list of rating actions follows at the end of this release.

KEY RATING DRIVERS

Fitch downgraded Ecopetrol S.A.'s Long-Term Foreign and Local Currency IDRs to 'BB' from 'BB+' and assigned it a Stable Rating Outlook, reflecting the downgrade of Colombia's IDR (BB/Stable).

The ratings reflect the Colombian government's 82% ownership of Ecopetrol. The company's ratings are capped at the sovereign rating due to the absence of legal ring-fencing isolating its cash flows, in addition to material access and control exerted by the government on the company. This is a consequence of Ecopetrol's strategic importance as a key liquid fuel supplier in Colombia and owner of 100% of the country's refining capacity, on top of the significant revenue up-streamed to the government.

Fitch downgraded Oleoducto Central S.A.'s (OCENSA) Long-Term Foreign and Local Currency IDRs to 'BB' from 'BB+' and assigned it a Stable Outlook, in line with Ecopetrol's rating.

OCENSA's ratings reflect its linkage with Ecopetrol's credit profile, the largest crude oil producer in Colombia and OCENSA's main off-taker. OCENSA's operations are integral to Ecopetrol's core business due to operational synergies. Ecopetrol relies heavily on OCENSA's infrastructure to transport crude oil from production fields to refineries and export terminals. Fitch considers OCENSA strategically important for Ecopetrol because it transported 82% of Ecopetrol's crude oil production in 2Q25.

Fitch downgraded A.I. Candelaria (Spain), S.A.'s Long-Term Foreign and Local Currency IDRs to 'BB-' from 'BB' and assigned it a Stable Outlook, in line with OCENSA's rating.

A.I. Candelaria's outstanding notes will remain structurally subordinated to OCENSA's outstanding USD400 million notes. As the holding company, A.I. Candelaria depends on dividends from OCENSA to service its obligations. Therefore, a substantial leverage increase at OCENSA could increase the structural subordination of A.I. Candelaria's creditors. This risk is mitigated by OCENSA's record of stable dividend distributions and A.I. Candelaria's right to veto changes to OCENSA's dividend policy and capex plans above USD100 million. Fitch believes the projected dividend stream will be more than sufficient to cover interest expense and principal payments on A.I. Candelaria's outstanding notes.

Fitch downgraded Grupo Energia Bogota S.A. E.S.P.'s (GEB) Long-Term Foreign and Local Currency IDRs to 'BBB-' from 'BBB' and assigned it a Stable Outlook, reflecting the downgrade of Bogota's IDR (BB/Stable). Fitch assesses GEB's Standalone Credit Profile (SCP) at 'bbb'. GEB operates independently and autonomously, positively affecting its ratings.

Fitch believes regulatory ring-fencing mechanisms, material minority shareholders, and strong governance practices reduce the parent's capacity to extract value from its stronger subsidiary. Under Fitch's "Parent-Subsidiary Rating Criteria" these factors led Fitch to rate GEB two notches above Bogota's consolidated profile.

Fitch downgraded Transportadora de Gas Internacional S.A. ESP's (TGI) Long-Term Foreign and Local Currency IDRs to 'BBB-' from 'BBB' and assigned it a Stable Outlook, in line with GEB's rating. Fitch caps TGI's SCP at Colombia's 'BB+' country ceiling, as 100% of the company's EBITDA as of September 2025 was generated in Colombia.

TGI's ratings receive a one-notch uplift due to GEB's medium-to-high operational and strategic incentives to support TGI. This equalizes their ratings, per Fitch's Parent-Subsidiary Linkage Criteria. These incentives reflect GEB's nearly 100% ownership of TGI and the substantial financial contribution to GEB of approximately 45% of GEB's operating EBITDA. Fitch also expects investment in Colombia and midstream businesses, such as TGI's, to remain a strategic focus for GEB's future growth.

Fitch downgraded Enel Colombia S.A. E.S.P.'s Long-Term Foreign and Local Currency IDRs to 'BBB-' from 'BBB' and assigned it a Stable Outlook, reflecting the downgrade of Colombia's IDR. The company is headquartered in Colombia (BB/stable), and its operation there represented approximately 90% of its consolidated EBITDA for the LTM ended September 2025. Fitch caps Enel Colombia's SCP at Colombia's 'bb+' due to the substantial cash flow generation from that country. Cash flows from operations in Panama (BB+/Stable), Guatemala (BB+/Stable) and Costa Rica (BB/Positive) exceed the company's hard currency debt service coverage for the next 12 months by more than 1.5x.

Per Fitch's Parent and Subsidiary Linkage Criteria, Enel América S.A.'s (BBB+/Stable) controlling stake of 57.4% in Enel Colombia provides sufficient control to apply the linkage following a stronger parent approach. Strategic incentives are medium given Enel Colombia's importance to the group and expected contribution of about 40% of its parent consolidated EBITDA. Legal incentives are weak due to the absence of parental guarantees or cross-defaults, and operational incentives are low as shared business and some common management do not yield material benefits to the parent. Overall, these factors support a bottom-up plus-one approach, leading to an IDR of 'BBB-' for Enel Colombia.

Fitch affirmed TermoCandelaria Power S.A.'s (TPL) Long-Term Foreign and Local Currency IDRs at 'BB' and revised the Outlook to Stable from Positive. The Outlook revision reflects a weaker operating environment in Colombia following the downgrade of its IDR. TPL's operations are based exclusively in Colombia in a regulated industry.

Ecopetrol S.A. has an ESG Relevance Score of '4' for Exposure to Social Impacts due to multiple attacks on its pipelines, which has a negative impact on the credit profile, and is relevant to the ratings in conjunction with other factors.

In issuing and maintaining its ratings and in making other reports (including forecast information), Fitch relies on factual information it receives from issuers and underwriters and from other sources Fitch believes to be credible. Fitch conducts a reasonable investigation of the factual information relied upon by it in accordance with its ratings methodology, and obtains reasonable verification of that information from independent sources, to the extent such sources are available for a given security or in a given jurisdiction. The manner of Fitch's factual investigation and the scope of the third-party verification it obtains will vary depending on the nature of the rated security and its issuer, the requirements and practices in the jurisdiction in which the rated security is offered and sold and/or the issuer is located, the availability and nature of relevant public information, access to the management of the issuer and its advisers, the availability of pre-existing third-party verifications such as audit reports, agreed-upon procedures letters, appraisals, actuarial reports, engineering reports, legal opinions and other reports provided by third parties, the availability of independent and competent third-party verification sources with respect to the particular security or in the particular jurisdiction of the issuer, and a variety of other factors. Users of Fitch's ratings and reports should understand that neither an enhanced factual investigation nor any third-party verification can ensure that all of the information Fitch relies on in connection with a rating or a report will be accurate and complete. Ultimately, the issuer and its advisers are responsible for the accuracy of the information they provide to Fitch and to the market in offering documents and other reports. In issuing its ratings and its reports, Fitch must rely on the work of experts, including independent auditors with respect to financial statements and attorneys with respect to legal and tax matters. Further, ratings and forecasts of financial and other information are inherently forward-looking and embody assumptions and predictions about future events that by their nature cannot be verified as facts. As a result, despite any verification of current facts, ratings and forecasts can be affected by future events or conditions that were not anticipated at the time a rating or forecast was issued or affirmed. Fitch Ratings makes routine, commonly-accepted adjustments to reported financial data in accordance with the relevant criteria and/or industry standards to provide financial metric consistency for entities in the same sector or asset class.

The complete span of best- and worst-case scenario credit ratings for all rating categories ranges from 'AAA' to 'D'. Fitch also provides information on best-case rating upgrade scenarios and worst-case rating downgrade scenarios (defined as the 99th percentile of rating transitions, measured in each direction) for international credit ratings, based on historical performance. A simple average across asset classes presents best-case upgrades of 4 notches and worst-case downgrades of 8 notches at the 99th percentile.
